Stone Towers and a Castle

On this hiking tour you stay in two of Tuscany's most beautiful hill towns, San Gimignano and Volterra. While other ancient Italian towns were transformed by war and urban renewal, San Gimignano and Volterra have preserved their unique architectural heritage. Beginning in the middle ages the patrician families who controlled San Gimignano built 72 house-towers as symbols of their wealth and power. Although only 14 have survived, San Gimignano has retained its feudal atmosphere and appearance. Volterra is still almost wholly embraced by its medieval walls and has an intact center focused on the Piazza dei Priori. As you stroll the cobbled streets you will feel the history all around you. Your days will be spent hiking through vineyards and olive groves and experiencing the culture of Tuscany. We visit a family-run winery where we meet the owners and enjoy lunch and a tour. We walk to a small inn where we spend the morning in a cooking class using seasonal local ingredients. We wander around an abandoned 700 year old castle. Bring comfortable walking shoes, your curiosity, and your appetite – a Tuscan adventure awaits.

Day 1 San Gimignano

San Gimignano to San Donato 5.6 miles (9 kilometers)

We meet in the center of Florence and shuttle by van to the Fattoria San Donato, a small family-run winery near San Gimignano. The Fenzi family has been producing wine on their hilltop farm since the 1930s. Today they host us for a buffet lunch which includes Tuscan staples such as spelt salad, prosciutto crudo (cured ham), and bruschetta. Umberto Fenzi gives us a guided tour of the winery. They also produce an extra-virgin olive oil with a buttery flavor and peppery finish. Energized from lunch we follow a farm road into the countryside. This is rural Tuscany at its best. We stroll past ancient stone farmhouses, vineyards, and olive groves. A winding uphill leads to a ridge with spectacular views of San Gimignano. The landscape hasn't changed here in centuries. After our hike we check in to our hotel. The hotel sits on San Gimignano's most important piazza. Most rooms have views of the piazza or surrounding countryside. Dinner on your own in San Gimignano.

Hopefully you will work up an appetite as we are heading to a cooking class in a small inn. This is not a cooking demonstration. ## Day 3 Volterra

San Gimignano – Pignano 5 miles (8 kilometers)

Today's hike takes you through the peaceful woodlands west of San Gimignano. The woods are lush and isolated. In WWII Italian partisans hid in these hills. Our hike takes us to a secluded 13th Century castle. When built, the castle was one of 20 that formed a defensive ring around San Gimignano. Records show that by 1458 just seven families lived there and by the early 1600s the castle was definitively abandoned. Today the castle is in ruins, but you can still admire the high castle walls, the foundations of numerous houses, and an intact church with frescoes from 1275. Leaving the woods the landscape opens up and Volterra appears on a ridge ahead. We stop for a leisurely picnic lunch on a hillside with a view. Hiking on quite farmroads we arrive at the perfectly preserved 18th century hamlet of Pignano. Van shuttle from Pignano to Volterra. Dinner on your own in Volterra.

Day 4 Volterra

Pignano – Volterra 5 miles (8 kilometers)

After breakfast we shuttle into the countryside. A peaceful farm road leads to the base of Monte Voltraio, a sandstone hill once dominated by a castle known as La Rocca. Only a few traces of the fortress remain, but it is worth the climb to enjoy the views. Volterra was originally settled by the Etruscans in 800 BC. In 400 BC the Etruscans built a 4-mile (7-km) wall around the town. Remains of the walls, including the Etruscan Porta dell'Arco still stand today. Volterra also has a Roman theater and baths (1st Century BC). While in Volterra you might want to visit the Guarnacci museum which has one of the world's best collections of Etruscan antiquities. If you go be sure to look for the Ombra della Sera (Shadow of the Evening) a bronze Etruscan statuette dating from the third century BC, and the museum's most important piece. Dinner on your own in Volterra.
