Duration: 6 Days/5 Nights

Beaches and Hilltowns

Most visitors to Tuscany see Florence and Siena. The Tuscan Coast is less travelled but equally beautiful, offering sweeping sea views, sun kissed hill towns and white sandy beaches. We have carefully scouted the best rides and accommodations. The trip features a winery tour and an optional day at the beach. Four of the five nights are in hill top villages with views over the Tyrrhenian Sea. The last hotel is a short walk from the beach. Along the way explore an Etruscan settlement from 600 BC. Sip wine while watching the sky go from pink to purple as the sun slowly sets behind Elba Island. Ride to the beach, take a refreshing dip in the sea, and savour a seafood lunch made from the day's catch. Tour a winery within the crenelated walls of a 13th century castle. The terrain is less challenging than central Tuscany with gentler climbs and lower elevations. The landscape is classic Tuscan, rich with vineyards and olive groves. The proximity to the sea creates a mild climate, perfect for cycling. Come and explore this lesser known corner of Tuscany.

Day 5 Cecina

Castagneto Carducci to Cecina 26 miles (42 kilometers)

Italy has a number of roads aptly called wine roads (Strade del Vino) which lead through major wine making areas. Today you ride to one of the most beautiful wine roads as you cycle north up the coast. Some of Italy's most prestigious reds are made here, including Sassacaia and Tignanello. At the end of the wine road, you turn on to the Boulevard of Cypresses. This road is lined with 2,400 cypress trees and leads to a fairy tale castle called Bolgheri. In Bolgheri you tour a winery and learn how French varietals are lovingly transformed into elegant, well-balanced Tuscan reds. After lunch the road zig zags through coastal villages before ending in the beachfront town of Cecina. Your hotel is a 10-minute walk from sandy beaches. Along the water's edge you will find gelaterias, cafes, and restaurants.

After breakfast in the hotel you check out and continue your travels.
